

YOU'RE INVITED ... ...TO LEARN, LEAD & TRANSFORM

Research shows that collaborative structures and processes in a school system benefit students, educators, administrators and the system as a whole — transforming the way personnel work together and ultimately impacting student outcomes for the better. That's why the National Education Association (NEA) and the Catalyst for Educational Change (CEC) invite you to participate in a new, transformative learning cohort to build collaborative success in your district.

WHAT IS THE OPPORTUNITY?

This is an opportunity for a leadership team from your district to participate in a facilitated pilot program to learn how to implement best practices that build and sustain collaborative processes and systems for student-centered, shared decision-making.

During this program, your team will:

- Have full access to NEA's online learning course "Collaborating for Student Success" and all of its accompanying tools and learning resources
- Participate in live, virtual cohort sessions with other districts from around the country facilitated by CEC experts
- Engage in live, virtual coaching sessions directly between your district and CEC

WHO SHOULD BE ON A DISTRICT LEADERSHIP TEAM?

District teams must include at least one district administrator and the education association/union president (or their designee). Beyond that, teams are encouraged to assemble a diverse team of district leaders representing a wide range of perspectives. For this program, team size is limited to 10 people per district.

WHAT IS THE INVESTMENT FOR MY DISTRICT?

The base investment to participate is $2125 per district. As a demonstration of its commitment to collaboration, NEA is offering a sponsorship of $265 for each NEA member on a team.
